

AFTER DEEDS.

Filipino Commissioners Spent Tuesday With the American Commissioners.

THEY ARE SEEKING INFORMATION.

Informed That Their Personal Rights Would Be Guaranteed Them as Under American Constitution.

Commissioners Approve American Policy of Separation of Church and State—They Are Personally Pleased With Plan of Government Offered.

MANILA, May 24.—The Filipino commissioners spent Tuesday at the residence of the American commissioners. They discussed every point of the scheme of government and the peace proclamation details, asking for information as to what personal rights would be guaranteed them.

Col. Charles Dwyer, of the American commission, explained that they be the same as under the United States constitution. The Filipinos also desired information as to the school system to be established, and approved the American policy of the separation of church and state. They chiefly objected to the scheme on the ground that it gave them personal liberty which they knew they would have, but did not give them political liberty.

Finally, the Filipinos said they were personally pleased with the plan, but could not endorse it officially.

During the day the Filipino commissioners called upon Maj. Gen. Otis and they will repeat their call Wednesday.

There is much comment here on the coming of the Filipino envoys are enjoying. They are arrayed in blue coats, scarlet trousers and gold lace, and they drive about the city, reveling in the attention bestowed on them, which is evidently exceedingly gratifying to them. They are the centers of continual levees at a Filipino house, where they have been entertained and have had every opportunity to advance their views on insurrection. Military sentiment disapproves of the Filipinos being lionized by their civilian element. Gen. Otis, from anti-bellum experience, is owing to the political situation, the newness of discussion, has maintained the attitude he assumes with the first commission. He has no other to make the Filipinos say that they lay down their arms and stop the war. The army believes that if it intend to remain in the Philippine Islands, it will be cheaper in the long run to whip the insurgents so that they will have no opportunity to surrender rather than to parley with them and make terms which they would construe as a compromise. The army is of the opinion that the first course may cost more men and more money in the beginning than the latter, it will prove an effectual damper upon future insurrections, whereas, if the war is ended by a compromise, the professional revolutionists among the Tagals may be encouraged to try again in few years.

Prof. Schurman, speaking of the commission's policy, said he believed the war was necessary because they thought us weaklings and cowards; but I believe also that conciliation should accompany force. My endeavor has been to show them the error of their ways, the professional revolutionists among the Tagals may be encouraged to try again in few years.

The professor is most optimistic as to the result of the negotiations and believes that the scheme of government proposed by the American commission will ultimately be adopted.

Rosario, a Filipino congressman who was a resident of Manila and formerly Aguinaldo's commissary general, accompanied by an important captain, called upon Maj. Gen. Otis today, and announced that "we desire to surrender our person and property into the hands of the Americans."

The surrender was arranged by Chaplain Flores, of the 14th regiment, who knew Rosario before the war. Rosario corresponded in cipher with Gen. Luna, as he has been closely watched by the officials at Tarlac since the insurrection has been declared. Rosario was only escaped by persuading Gen. Luna to send him on a secret mission to Manila for the purpose of collecting funds. With the captain, ten men and families, Rosario was taken the night through the swamps and mountains, passed the lines of both armies, and entered Manila Monday evening. He has been liberated on parole.

According to the story told by Rosario, Gen. Luna is an absolute dictator and Aguinaldo fears him. Every Filipino leader, it is added, suspects the elements of treachery. The recent meeting of the Filipino congress was to secure a new cabinet, and the question of peace was not formally considered as the members feared Gen. Luna's displeasure. The Filipino government was unable to secure a secretary of the treasury. All those who were offered the portfolio declined to accept it.

A PEACE JUBILEE.

Three Days' Festivities Were Inaugurated at the National Capital on Tuesday.

IMPOSING PARADE AND FIREWORKS.

Day Opened With Boom of Big Guns From the Dolphin, Church Chimneys and Steam Whistles.

Probably 75,000 People Witnessed the Grand Display, Which Included a Realistic Reproduction of the Battle at Manila.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Beginning with an imposing parade of military and public buildings are decorated, and a display of fireworks at night, the national capital Tuesday inaugurated a three days' peace jubilee. The main thoroughfares of the city and public buildings are decorated with bunting, and the programme of parades and festivities has drawn a large number of visitors. With the exception of a shower, which was not of sufficient duration to mar the occasion, the weather was ideal and Washington has Tuesday worn its inauguration aspect. The parade, which was the feature of the first day, moved down Pennsylvania avenue, between cheering throngs, through the handsomely decorated court of honor in front of the white house, and passed in review before the president and a distinguished party of public officials.

The day opened with the boom of big guns from the Dolphin, which, anchored off the navy yard, fired the national salute at sunrise and church chimneys and hundreds of steam whistles joined in the noisy chorus. At noon the departments closed and poured their thousands out to join the crowds on the streets and at the same hour a salute of 45 guns was fired.

The president and Secretaries Hay and Gage, who stood on a small platform jutting from the stand were repeatedly and tumultuously applauded as they uncovered each time the American colors trooped by. Gen. Wheeler was accorded the largest demonstration. In full uniform he rode in a carriage. He was everywhere cheered. As he reached the reviewing stand he was greeted by the president. The people went wild. Another interesting and significant incident was the cheering of Sousa's new march, "Hail to the Chief." One of the bands struck up this stirring air as the reviewing stand was reached. The applause which greeted was started by the diplomats, spread through the stand and broke in a roar of cheering along the whole length of the court of honor. The parade was three-quarters of an hour passing the reviewing stand.

Probably 75,000 people went to the White House to witness the review. The magnificent display of fireworks, which included a realistic reproduction of the battle of Manila, portraits of President McKinley, Adm. Dewey and of other notable characters of the war. President and Mrs. McKinley and most of the members of the cabinet lunched at the families occupied vantage seats and were interested spectators of the exhibition.

There were many special electrical devices on business houses, while the court of honor, stretching along Pennsylvania avenue in front of the president's house, formed an object of much interest to thousands of spectators. The great enterprises were handsomely illuminated and decorated as was also the grand stand from which the president and his cabinet viewed the parade in the day.

PEACE CONGRESS.

Measures to Preserve the Secrecy of the Deliberations Have Been Redoubled.

COMMITTEES HOLD FIRST SESSIONS.

Only Delegates and Secretaries Are Admitted to the Proceedings of the Halls Ten Bosch.

Both Entrances to the Gardens Are Closed With Barred Gates Which Are Guarded by Sentinels—Queen Wilhelmina and Her Mother Arrive.

THE HAGUE, May 24.—The three committees held their first sessions Tuesday afternoon, these being devoted solely to inaugural formalities and an exchange of ideas with regard to procedure. They will meet again on Friday.

M. De Staal, head of the Russian delegation, attended the meeting of the arbitration committee, sitting next to M. Bourgeois, head of the French delegation. The measures to preserve the secrecy of the deliberations have been redoubled. Only the delegates and secretaries are admitted to the precincts of the Huis Ten Bosch. Both entrances to the gardens are closed with barred gates, which are guarded by sentinels under command of non-commissioned officers in full uniform. Every applicant for admission is called upon to produce an orange colored card issued to the delegates and to give the secret pass word.

Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, accompanied by the queen's mother, arrived Tuesday evening and drove through the streets, their majesties being warmly greeted by the populace. At 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the queen will receive the chiefs of the various delegations who will be presented by M. De Beaufort, minister of foreign affairs. All the delegates received invitations to a grand reception at half past 9 Wednesday evening, when the delegation chiefs will introduce their colleagues and the wives of the latter to the queen.

The Empress Nicholas has sent Queen Wilhelmina the tricolor of St. Catherine set in brilliants.
